

SPECIAL FEATURE

Describing the Organization of Experiences in Medical Practices : Phenomenology and Qualitative Research

Describing the Organization of Experiences in Medical Practices Hiroki Maeda, PhD	311
Qualitative Research Method in the View of Embodiment : Language and Logic for Describing the Experience Haruhiko Murakawa, PhD	324
A Description for Inquirers to Understand of the Experience : From an Experience Noriko Okubo, RN, NMW, PHN, PhD	337
Family Care after Death in Palliative Care Wards : Practice Experience Immediately after Death Minako Morita, RN, PhD	346
A Descriptive Study of a Nursing Student's Experience in Patient Understanding : On the Basis of the Hermeneutics of H-G.Gadamer Yukiko Maekawa, RN, MEd	356
The Meaning of Talking and Describes about an Experience of Having a Depression Disease Mamiko Konda, RN, MS	368
The Changing Experience of Illness for HIV-Infected Individuals with Hemophilia Kayoko Omura, RN, PHN, MS	377
Experience of Time and the Organization of Cooperative Work Practices : Focus on Nursing Practice in Acute Ward Yumi Nishimura, RN, PhD, and Hiroki Maeda, PhD	388
Phenomenological Attitude and the Practice of Field Work Yumi Nishimura, RN, PhD, and Hiroki Maeda, PhD	400
SPECIAL ISSUE
Can't be the Findings of Qualitative Research Generalized? : Generalizability in Qualitative Research Hiroko Yatsu, RN, NMW, PhD, and Motoko Kita, RN, PhD	414