

SPECIAL FEATURE

Developing the Research Model Conducted by Nurses

The Review of Clinical Nursing Research in Japan Erika Uda, RN, MHSc	630
Surveys of the Research Conducted by Nurses Reiko Sakashita, RN, PhD, Tomoko Nishihira, RN, BSN, and Miho Nishitani, RN, BSN	638
What is the Significance of Nursing Research in Clinical Settings in Japan? Tomoko Miyashiba, RN, PhD	643
Examination of Journal Articles Published by Clinical Nurses Yoko Kitajima, RN, MS	649
Overview of Clinical Nursing Research in the United States : Enhancing Evidence-Based Practice Program for Staff Nurses Ayako Okada, RN, PhD	659
Evidence-Based Patient Management, Micro-Evidence, and Micro-Trialing Ivo Abraham, RN, PhD, FAAN and Karen MacDonald, RN, PhD (Translated by) Reiko Sakashita, RN, PhD	666
Research Models for Clinical Settings Reiko Sakashita, RN, PhD	679
How Nurses should Conduct Clinical Nursing Research? Reiko Sakashita, RN, PhD, Atsuko Uchinuno, RN, MSN, PhD, and Noriko Katada, RN, DNSc	686

SPECIAL ISSUE

An Examination of Qualitative Research in the Japanese Health Sciences, Part 3 : Data Analysis Shigeko Saiki-Craighill, RN, DNSc, Yoshie Mito, MS, and Misa Seki, MS	694
--	-----

SERIES

Perspectives to Speculate on Nursing Science, Research, and Scholarship : Toward a Dialogue Between Different Disciplines	6
--	---

To Make the Invisible Visible

Hiroyuki Eto, PhD, LittD	706
--------------------------	-----

The Basic of Nursing Research : Tips for Significant Research	12
--	----

Mixed Methods Research

Reiko Sakashita, RN, PhD	712
--------------------------	-----