

SPECIAL FEATURE

Nursing Science and Philosophy

Nursing and Philosophy : A Study on the Interaction between Nursing and Phenomenology Tetsuya Sakakibara, PhD	258
Complementing Each Other and Thinking : From an Analysis of a Nurse's Interview Michitaro Kobayashi, PhD	267
How Pain can be Verbally Communicated to Others? : A Consideration on Speech Acts and Use of Metaphors in Expressing Pain Takashi Ikeda, PhD	276
Working on Clinical Settings with Knowledge of Philosophy Tomomi Miura, RN, PhD	285
Describing the Lived Body : From an Experience of Recuperating Body Shiori Sakai, RN, PHN, PhD	293
A Study on Approaching Experiences of a Person Living with Chronic Illness : A Phenomenological Description from his Perspective Tomoko Hosono, RN, PHN, MSN	300
"Being able to Work Effectively" when Working with Others : What Phenomenology can Teach us Yuko Murakami, RN, PHN, MSN	308
The Linguistic Foundation of Interview Analysis : Phenomenology as Science of Individual Yasuhiko Murakami, PhD	316
"Bracketing" as Phenomenological Thinking Style : Discussion of Relationship Phenomenology and Nursing Research Yumi Nishimura, RN, PHN, PhD	324

SPECIAL ISSUE

Report of the 19th EAFONS in Chiba Misako Miyazaki, RN, PHN, PhD	340
--	------------

SERIES

For Writing an English Paper - 5 For Writing "Discussion" SeonAe Yeo, RNC, PhD, FAAN	344
--	------------